Klamath County Tourism Grant – Final Report

The 2015 Sr. Babe Ruth World Series was a huge success. Thousands of local baseball fans and many out of town guests converged upon Klamath Falls and Kiger Stadium. Over 80 volunteers were given a World Series Operations Manual and put in countless hours to organize every detail of the event (Attachment 1). The initial investment to host the tournament was $45,000 to World Series Inc. (Attachment 2).

Importance of Grants received: In addition to paying the initial $45,000 host fee, this Grant helped us to transport all 180 players and 25 coaches into Klamath Falls. Transportation proved to be the biggest challenge because our town does not have an active airport. We spent $14,238 with US Coachways to charter buses from Sacramento to Klamath Falls, and then back to Sacramento (Attachment 3). Additionally, the tournament host is responsible for providing transportation to the coaches, managers, umpires, and Babe Ruth Inc. staff to use during the tournament. This rental car expenditure was a negotiated flat fee of $10,000 (Attachment 4). We also incurred $3,450 in Grant Writer expenses (Attachment 5).

Event Overview: Teams began to arrive for the 2015 Babe Ruth Baseball 16-18 World Series on Thursday, August 6 at the Comfort Inn in Klamath Falls. Delegates from Babe Ruth League Inc., local host families and committee members were on hand to welcome, feed, and orient players before they headed to the host families' homes. By morning the 9 out-of town teams had made it Klamath Falls. More than 207 hotel rooms were secured to house coaches and Babe Ruth Inc. staff for the event (Attachment 6). Hundreds more rooms were booked by out of town guests arriving to watch the tournament and most hotels in Klamath Falls were sold out of rooms during the series.

Kick-off events began Friday, August 7 with a coach's breakfast at Starv' Marv'n Family Restaurant and float decorating on Spring Street. At noon, well-wishers lined Main Street to welcome players as they passed, waving from decorated hay trucks. The parade ended at Veterans Park where local fans, media reporters and host families mixed and mingled with all 180 players and 25 coaches.

That evening, the teams, out of town visitors, host families, sponsors and local fans -- more than 650 people -- attended the Banquet of Champions BBQ at Mike's Fieldhouse at Steen Sports Park. Mayor Todd Kellstrom addressed the audience and officially welcomed visitors to Klamath Falls. Six players from the 1967 and/or 1968 Klamath Falls Babe Ruth World Series team were honored. Guest speaker Mike Minnear of Missouri delivered an engaging address about his journey in baseball despite multiple physical birth defects that challenged his own and others' perceptions about his abilities.

On August 8th, official pool play began at 12 noon at Kiger Stadium, followed by three more games that day as well as opening ceremonies between games three and four. Across 25 games from August 8 to August 15 more than 35,000 fans, players, coaches, umpires, and volunteers passed through the gates at Kiger Stadium to watch the top Babe Ruth baseball teams in North America. In addition to the Kiger concession stand, 10 different local vendors set up business inside Kiger Stadium to sell food, apparel and photo souvenirs.

Revenue Stream: A tremendous amount of volunteer time and more than $80,000 were required well in advance of the event (6-14 months). Significant ticket sales do not begin until the regional winners are named across the country, which happens about 10 days in advance of the World Series; therefore, other revenue streams must be secured prior to the event. Advanced sponsorship sales and grants were necessary to cash flow the event's preparations. There were 75 sponsors (local, regional, and national) who either paid cash, or donated supplies and services.

Visitor Spending: Out of town guests filled up hotels, ate in Klamath Falls restaurants, and enjoyed sightseeing and adventuring in our beautiful county. Although no formal study was conducted, conservatively, 1,000 out-of-town visitors are estimated to have spent an average of $200 per day across 7 days, infusing more than $1.4 million new money into the local economy. A vast majority of the 180 players had 2 or more, sometimes 10 or 15, family members and friends travel from out of town to attend all or part of the 9-day event. There were also out of town visitors who were not there to see a specific player, but were just fans of the game and recognized the prestige of the Babe Ruth World Series. After speaking with dozens of visitors, common expenditures included hotel, clothing, groceries/sundries, restaurant dining, rental car, fuel, souvenirs, tickets, and other entertainment. Employees at the Chevron gas station across from the Fairgrounds near Kiger Stadium stated that they could not keep enough product on the shelves (snacks, water, Gatorade etc...) and had to order an additional tanker truck full of fuel because of the event. This kind of feedback in regards to an increase in business was common from many local businesses. The Fred Meyer Manager saw an increase of 12% in their daily sales. Hotels in Klamath Falls were sold out, and we could go on and on.

Further economic impact included the Babe Ruth tournament committee purchasing local goods and services for the event such as:

- Printing costs = $13,957
- Hotel Rooms for coaches, umpires, and Babe Ruth Inc staff = $39,177
- Local Rental Cars for coaches, manager, umpires = $10,000
- Concession Stand Purchases from local businesses = $4,017
- Banquet Purchases from local businesses = $4,900
- Advertising = $2,788

Other Noteworthy Items:

- Official fan attendance was counted at each game. Total fan attendance for the World Series was 27,273 with 4,365 taking in the championship game. See Herald & News Article attached.
- We were also able to build a robust Website and Facebook page for the event. Tickets were also sold online and enclosed is a list of names and email addresses of those who bought tickets online (See attached list). We feel this information would be important for anyone who would like to do a survey about Klamath Falls and their stay here.

- Samples of the World Series Sponsorship Packets are included.
- We have also included samples of tickets, posters, and programs that were printed for the event. (See attachments)
- Also attached are several newspaper articles from the event. (See attachments)

In closing, we would like to thank Klamath County for helping to make the 2015 Sr. Babe Ruth World Series was a huge success. The grants we received were necessary and very much appreciated to pull off an event this large. Although our budget was smaller than all of the other World Series Tournaments hosted around the nation, and despite the fact we had to cut back in every area of our budget and run a bare-bones event, the World Series was a success for our community. Lessons were learned and if given the honor to host the event again, we are confident that it will be even bigger and better.

RE: 2015 World Series

I hope this memo finds you doing well. We are very excited that Klamath Falls will host the 2015 Babe Ruth 16-18 World Series. In order to get started with initial preparations for the World Series, please provide me with the following information at your earliest convenience:

- Enclosed is a copy of the 2014 Media Guide. Please note pages 20-37 which feature our 2014 World Series sites. Please review these pages to develop the same type of information for Klamath Falls to include in the 2015 edition. (If you will be using more than one hotel, please be advised that we will only be able to include information for the main hotel.) In order to meet printing deadlines, please send this information, along with a photograph of your playing facility or one that best depicts Klamath Falls, to my attention at Babe Ruth Headquarters (1770 Brunswick Pike, Trenton, NJ 08648), along, by October 1, 2014. If you prefer, this information can be emailed to robert@baberuthleague.org with a copy to theresa@baberuthleague.org.
- Enclosed is an information form that I am asking each site to complete and return to Theresa Cleary at Babe Ruth Headquarters or via email to theresa@baberuthleague.org.
- Babe Ruth League will be using two local umpires to work the World Series. Please send your recommendations of two of the very best umpires from your area to work the World Series. The candidates must be a member of the Babe Ruth National Umpires Association.

It is never too early to start planning for the World Series to ensure an economic boom for your community and the surrounding areas. Listed below are several areas to focus on to get your community on the right foot to host a successful World Series:

- The first step is to make sure you have a key group of volunteers in place that will perform the majority of all tasks. I am enclosing a copy of the Babe Ruth League Operations Manual to provide you with a concise insight on the total operation of a World Series and a general knowledge of the responsibilities and duties of those who participate in the planning, preparing and running of the World Series.
- Please send me copies of the minutes from your World Series meetings. This will allow me to track the progress you are making and assist with any problems that may arise.
- I cannot stress enough the importance of advance ticket sales, especially family passed. A great idea is to have separate ticket coordinators sell to specific areas, as well as one ticket coordinator to sell to local businesses.

- Carefully plan and secure all possible revenue streams. The Financial Committee plays a major role in the success of the World Series. Continually create publicity for the World Series - announcements to service groups, schools, leagues and media. Advertise! Conduct fund raising campaigns. Seek financial support from the city and county government, as well as local clubs and businesses. Seek corporate support - offer sponsorship packages. Plan early for profitable items such as the concession stand, World Series Program Book, souvenirs and scorecards.
- An adequate number of sleeping rooms need to be blocked at the main Headquarters Hotel, as well as surrounding hotels, for the Task Force, umpires, Babe Ruth Officials, VIPs and team followers. Negotiate the best room rates possible as the cost of a room will be a determining factor for attendance by team followers.
- Team Orientation Site - While the Headquarters Hotel would be a first-class site for team orientations, it would probably cost you a lot for them to supply the players with food. At orientation, we usually provide the players with a snack, such as a hot dog or hamburger and a soft drink. A facility such as a high school gym would allow your group more control over the cost of food.
- World Series Banquet (if applicable) - This can be held at the World Series Headquarters Hotel or another site that can accommodate a minimum of 700 people. The banquet is free for team personnel. You would charge a ticket price for team followers and other guests. Most Host communities break even on the expense for the banquet, unless you can secure a sponsor.
- Managers/Coaches/Umpires Breakfast - This is a business type meeting with a full-course breakfast that is attended by approximately 75 people. This is the local committee's expense, but it can be sponsored.
- World Series Program Book - Babe Ruth League will provide welcome letters, informational material and ads from our corporate sponsors that must be included in the book. Basically, the advertising is what generates the income, not the actual sale of the book.

For your information and review, I am also enclosing the Pre-World Series Instructions sent to the Regional Team Managers in 2014 and a copy of the 2014 World Series schedule.

Hosting a successful World Series requires thorough planning, commitment and more than a little bit of salesmanship. It is a lot of work. However, you will find from the wonderful lasting memories created, to the prestige your community will enjoy, to the financial success of a well-run tournament, hosting a Babe Ruth World Series is a privilege that will be unmatched by any other project your community takes on.

Remember, we at home plate are here to assist. I am currently traveling to the 2014 World Series and will return to the office in September. If you have any questions on the above, the enclosed materials or any other aspect of the World Series, do not hesitate to contact me.

BABE RUTH LEAGUE, INC.

WORLD SERIES

OPERATIONS MANUAL

INTRODUCTION

In 1951, a group of men dedicated to the youth of America met in Hamilton, New Jersey, and formed what became the very first ten-team Babe Ruth League. Babe Ruth Baseball caught on nationally, then internationally. The program now ranks as one of the premier amateur baseball and softball programs in the world.

The program has grown from its inaugural World Series in 1952, to seven baseball and two softball World Series offered on an annual basis. Each chartered league is eligible to enter a team in tournament competition. District winners go into statewide competition with that successful club qualifying for the regional tournament. The regional champions from across the United States and Canada compete in each World Series.

This booklet is designed to give a brief but concise insight into the total operation of a Babe Ruth World Series and a general knowledge of the responsibilities and duties of those who participate in the planning, preparing and running of the World Series.

NOTE: Throughout this booklet the reader shall see the words "to be designated" and "to be determined" following specific subjects. "To be designated" means that Babe Ruth Headquarters will inform the Host Community of this data according to existing Babe Ruth World Series policies. "To be determined" means that this information will be mutually agreed upon by the Host Community and Babe Ruth Headquarters.

The Babe Ruth World Series Experience

Even though Babe Ruth League, Inc. is not the major leagues, with more than one million participants worldwide, it's truly a BIG LEAGUE. The program is driven by its purpose and mission to teach beyond the field of play and is known for developing positive life skills among its participants.

Hosting a Babe Ruth World Series could be one of the most important things your league/group could do both financially and for the welfare of your players and community.

From an economic standpoint, the hosting community and surrounding areas will benefit greatly. In addition to the participating teams, the Babe Ruth World Series will draw volunteers, officials, families, team followers, fans, collegiate and professional scouts from all over the country. Tournament schedules are established to promote the areas in which the players and parents will be staying. Usually, each team plays a minimum of games over a set period. Each team has scheduled days off during which the participants, parents and team followers can take advantage of the local flavor and attractions within the hosting and surrounding areas. Hotels are filled with visitors. The local shopping malls, outlets and stores are very busy with "Babe Ruth" tourists. Area restaurants and fast food establishments are filled to capacity. Sometimes these "tourists" return to your area again and again.

Hosting a Babe Ruth World Series will not only bring your community together, but will provide them with a special sense of pride. Many volunteer hours will be put in and what you accomplish as a group will unite and bond all of your residents.

The Host Family Program is one of the most positive aspects of the World Series. The tasks are few and the rewards are many. Special friendships are forged, many that last a lifetime.

The Babe Ruth World Series provides many wonderful and lasting memories for the participants and your community. The Babe Ruth World Series provides breathtaking competition, a financial success from a well-run tournament and will be remembered as a privilege that will be unmatched by any other project your league/group ever takes on.

ORGANIZATION

As in planning for any event the size and scope of a Babe Ruth World Series, the first step is the formulation of a "key" group of volunteers in the Host Community who will perform the majority of all tasks which must be accomplished in order for a World Series to be a success. The primary objective of each individual involved in the administration of the World Series shall be to provide a memorable World Series experience for each participating athlete, coach, staff member, and tournament attendee.

Of course, within this group there is always a "key person". The one person to whom Headquarters can refer all matters not specifically covered under the duties and responsibilities of the many others involved. We call this person the HOST PRESIDENT. He/She serves as president of the local non-profit corporation organized for hosting the Babe Ruth World Series and must be a person totally familiar with World Series operation, this knowledge to have been gained primarily by attending previous World Series, the World Series Training Center and serving in the Babe Ruth program.

Directly under the Host President we have the Executive Vice President and the seven DIVISION DIRECTORS, each of whom is responsible to the Host President for a major division of organization. In no specific order of importance these seven divisions are: STADIUM; ADMINISTRATION; FINANCE; PUBLIC RELATIONS; OPERATIONS; PRESS BOX; AND VOLUNTEER.

Within each division there are numerous areas of responsibility, each governed by a COMMITTEE CHAIRPERSON responsible to the Division Director for satisfactory operation.

Make sure all substitutions, offensive and defensive, are recorded, and that Innings pitched are kept. Ensure the manual scorebook and the electronic scorebook are identical.
- Statistics - Oversee compiling of game-by-game statistics by the scorekeeping crew, for individual players and teams, including game box score. Box score needs to be distributed in press box as quickly as possible after each game. Press Box Coordinator must ensure that the manual scorebook and the electronic scoring are in sync.

Prior to an ineligible pitcher throwing a pitch, you must attempt to prevent the game from proceeding with an ineligible pitcher.

PUBLIC ADDRESS

- Announcers should follow the Babe Ruth script for pre-game ceremonies. Please remind announcers play-by-play commentary is not used at the World Series. Likewise, we do not announce errors.
- No press box commentary, music, or sound effects, should ever be used that could embarrass or disparage a player or team. However, appropriate music between innings, before and after games, and during time outs is encouraged to enhance the World Series atmosphere.
- Make sure press box announcer is provided with completed script no later than one hour prior to the beginning of Opening Ceremonies. All Opening Ceremonies announcing must take place in the press box. The field microphone is used only for the performance of the National Anthem and God Bless America. The Press Box Coordinator will be introduced on the field along with the rest of the task force for Opening Ceremonies.
- Prior to the end of the championship game, as much of the script for Closing Ceremonies should be completed as possible. Most of the All-World Series team and All-Defensive team can be selected in advance of the completion of the championship game. The Most Outstanding Player, the Sportsmanship Award, and the Batting Champion will be determined at the conclusion of the Championship game.
- While awards are being brought onto the field for the trophy presentation, finish filling in the script for Closing Ceremonies and deliver it to the announcer. The Press Box Coordinator will remain in the press box to direct Closing Ceremonies. Make sure a remote mic is on the field for the World Series Director's closing remarks.

MEDIA

From the managers, obtain the names, phone numbers, and email addresses of their hometown media outlets (newspapers, radio, television, webcast). Use the information obtained to complete the Media Call List included in this document.

- Write articles, or arrange with a local sportswriter to furnish his/her championship story, for the Babe Ruth League, Inc. September Batter-Up Email Blast and Online Magazine BULLPEN. Fax a story on the All-tournament Team, All Defensive Team, Most Outstanding Player, Sportsmanship Award, and Batting Champion to Babe Ruth Headquarters (609-695-2505) (attention Colleen Higgins) prior to leaving the ball park on the final day. You may also email the information to colleen@baberuthleague.org. If the local newspaper is not available in time for your departure from the World Series site on Sunday, arrange to have the Host President forward the championship story, or determine where the story may be found on the newspaper's website. Klamath Falls has been chosen to host the 2015 Babe Ruth Baseball World Series! Winning teams from each Babe Ruth regional playoff tournament – plus the Klamath Falls host team and a state champion team – will play at Kiger Stadium in the year's most prestigious baseball tournament in the United States for players 16 to 18 years old.

From August 7 to August 15, 2015 about 21,000 ticketed attendees and players are expected to visit Kiger Stadium. This eight-day event will attract an estimated 1,200 first-time visitors traveling here from all regions of the U.S.

Preparations are underway to greet players, their families, coaches, fans, sports media and baseball scouts with the very best Klamath Falls has to offer. Planned activities include Banquet of Champions, Home Run Derby, Downtown Parade of Teams, Opening Ceremonies, and a full week of outstanding baseball games. ## Minor changes needed when planning next World Series

Minor adjustments are all that will be needed to make any improvements on the efforts by the Klamath Falls people who made the recently completed 16-18 Babe Ruth World Series at Kiger Stadium a success.

STEVE MATTHIES

Sports editor

"The largest undertaking to host a World Series is the host family program," tournament director Eugene Reynolds want to be a host family." The other major factor is financial support from the from Alabama said as he reflected on the tournament.

"Deanna (Edwards) and the people here did a great job," Reynolds said. "I heard a lot of comments from people who didn't host this year who said if the tournament comes back that they would community.

Reynolds noted the efforts by a local automobile dealership to provide vehicles for out-of-town coaches, umpires and tournament officials was unusual, but well appreciated by the individuals involved.

"Logistics is always a concern, and can add to the cost for a host community," Reynolds said. "If you get the housing and logistics solved, everything else pretty much falls into place.

"For a first-time hosting the tournament, this community has done an excellent job. All I've heard from the players, and they're the reason why we are here, is compliments. If the players are happy, we're happy."

That Klamath Falls had just a few months to pull together everything necessary to host the tournament is almost astounding. Host communities, Reynolds said, usually have 24 months to prepare for hosting the event.

"There is nothing major that needs to be changed. Anything to be changed is minor. It's like building a house. After

"They're headed in the right direction," Reynolds, who noted Klamath Falls looks like a probable choice for the 2019 World Series, said. "What they might want to do is to better utilize the expertise of the professional talent in the community."

One thing Reynolds found surprising is the number of motels/hotels and restaurants in Klamath Falls, especially for the size of the community, which he said is similar to where he lives in Alexander City, Ala.

"I can't say enough about the host families," he said. "That is the backbone of our program. It takes a special person to house the kids. I like the way the community worked together."

Reynolds made reference to playing the semifinal games on a Friday afternoon to avoid a conflict with the Dustin Lynch concert at the Klamath County Fair later in the evening, and it was noted many players from the World Series were seen wondering around the fair and at the concert.

In addition to members of the task force that worked with Reynolds, there were more than several comments from around the stands that people, especially from Klamath Falls, were impressed at the high quality of baseball by team's the tournament.

Congratulations, thanks to those who made Babe Ruth World Series a success

Klamath County has been strong youth baseball area for decades and has a long string of high school championships to prove it and a perfect venue for it in Kiger Stadium.

Teams love playing on well-groomed field and in front of spectators sitting in one of only two all-wood stadlums left in North America, according to website for the Kiger Association, which was formed to support Kiger Stadium.

The Babe Ruth host committee was a driving force in bringing the 16-18 Babe Ruth World Series to Klamath Falls, with the championship being won by the Columbia Basin River Dogs Saturday, 5-0, in a battle of the unbeaten with the defending champions from Mobile, Ala.

The series was a great showcase for youth baseball, bringing in teams from all over the nation — New England, the deep South, Midwest, the West Coast — staying with host families, making friends and getting a chance to see the Klamath Basin, especially Crater Lake.

They also played some outstanding baseball. Congratulations and thanks to everyone who had a hand in it — the players, host families, organizers, merchants, friendly locals and the fans who were among the thousands who got to Kiger Stadium.

The host committee deserves our thanks for all the hours it put in, nonstop, to make this a success.

On the upside, the recently completed Klamath County Fair and the 2015 Babe Ruth World Series were roaring successes. Anecdotally, Keith Stotts of the World Series host committee, said that restaurants and grocery stores saw a substantial uptick in business during the nine-day events. Hotels were booked solid for most of it. It looks like Klamath Falls will have the advantage in getting the series in four years. And, since word of the event is getting out there, there's a possibility of other baseball events coming here, such as the Little League playoffs.

2015 Babe Ruth World Series a resounding success

By JOAQUIN AGUILAR
H&N Sports Writer

Ten teams from around the U.S. and over 166-plus baseball players grazed Kiger Stadium in Klamath Falls' premiere sports event this summer at the 2015 16-15 Babe Ruth World Series.

There was never an exact account of the total people who walked through the gates of the baseball field, but World Series host committee chairman Keith Stotts estimated approximately around 35,000 to 40,000 people entered Kiger Stadium to watch the 25 games that were played in eight days.

"Some of the people repeated coming to the stands, obviously, but to know that many heads walked through these gates is a huge thing," Stotts said.

"When you figure economically what it does for our community, it is something that you see is more than worth it."

Before the World Series this year, the Babe Ruth committee told Stotts the projected revenue that would come to Klamath Falls would be somewhere around $4.5 million dollars.

After later talking with the committee again, Stotts said the total estimate was discussed to being $1.5 million.

"I would think that the total after everything is going to be around $3 million," he said.

"The reason I say that is because I have talked to a lot of the players, coaches and families who traveled here and with the things that they did here in the community from going out to our local clothing stores, restaurants, rental car agencies, motels, any entertainment and with the concert we had at the fairgrounds also having a big turnout, will all help."

Stotts, who was at the Dustin Lynch concert last Thursday, described how he saw plenty of baseball players with their friends and families and estimated around 4,000 people at the event.

Success/ from B2

Todd Hoggarth, the Klamath County Fair grounds manager, and Stotts both talked about having the concert run at the same time as the World Series so the several teams visiting could have another event to go to while they were in the area.

COMING AGAIN?

Stotts announced at the end of Columbia Basin's 3-0 victory over Alabama in the championship game that he has been in contact with members of the Babe Ruth committee for the past two weeks and has been asked if Klamath Falls would like to host another Babe Ruth World Series in 2019.

Stotts did not say whether he has accepted the hosting but talked about some of the burdens to overcome if that year or another would be a good hosting idea.

Stotts said traveling is at the top of the list with getting people in and out of Klamath Falls.

Of all the Babe Ruth teams this year, Cape Cod, Mass., came the farthest and traveled 3,079 miles.

"Not having an airport is a huge thing. Yes, we have Medford but it is an inconvenience. I will spend the next few days taking kids to and from Medford after this World Series to get on planes," Stotts said. We can change that and utilize the airport we have; we have the seventh longest runway in the United States here, so let's utilize it. I feel like we can do that as a community to make it happen again."

Coach Mark Helfrich said, ideally, he'd like to name a starter in advance of Oregon's opener Sept. 5 against — interestingly enough — Eastern Washington. But it depends.

Nathan Tobias, 13, shakes hands with members of the Mobile Ala., Rawdogs after throwing out the ceremonial first pitch before the championship game of the 2015 Babe Ruth World Series at Koger Stadium on Aug. 15. Tobias was diagnosed with a brain tumor and underwent surgery earlier this summer to remove it.

All kinds of baseball at World Series

By STEVE MATTHIES
 H&N sports editor

There was good baseball. Sloppy baseball. Everything in between. Everything one would expect during a high level tournament, which the 16-18 Babe Ruth World Series proved to be over 10 days at Koger Stadium.

There were spectacular defensive plays worthy of being called a Web Gem.

There were balls hit ridiculously hard. Yet, only one home run was hit through the 25 games of the tournament, something several individuals who are regulars at the World Series said they could not remember happening before.

As with every tournament, there were botched bunts, base-running blunders and plays that left longtime baseball aficionados scratching their heads.

Typical stuff.

The emotional highlight of the tournament, however, came before the championship game when Nathan Tobias walked to the pitcher's mound to make the ceremonial first pitch.

Tobias, who has had a tough four months including surgery because of a brain tumor, another to drain fluids, comes from almost pure bred baseball stock.

As he walked to the mound, accompanied by family, his story was told. He made a nice pitch, too.

What happened after Mike Farnell, the Mobile, Ala., catcher caught the pitch easily could have brought tears to any compassionate person's eyes. First, it was the Rawdogs from Alabama. Then the River Dogs from the Columbia Basin of Washington state.

Collectively, as teams, they went to the mound to shake hands, give high fives and hugs to Tobias.

Oh, yes, those players had a championship on their mind, for many the biggest game their careers will provide, but their acknowledgment of a Tobias was a major league gesture well appreciated by the crowd of more than 4,300 fans who made their way to Kiger Stadium for the final game of the tournament.

AN EXTRA HITTER

Several fans commented they did not understand the extra hitter, or extra player, being used during the tournament.

A few years back, Babe Ruth baseball added the BH as an experiment as a potential replacement for the designated hitter, now an almost staple element of the game. It was up to individual teams and leagues whether they wished to use the BH, or not.

What the extra hitter does is gives a team 10 players who will bat during the game, instead of nine, but teams are not required to use it. Several times during the World Series a team played with a straight, National League-style nine players.

Many teams have used the EH for the second game of double-header, allowing the first-game pitcher, if he was a good hitter, to remain in lineup without having to chance a tough throw if he had been in the field.

TOURNAMENT TIDBITS

▪ Bryan Johnson, who played in the 1998 regional tournament at Kiger Stadium for the Columbia Basin River Dogs, and now the baseball coach at Stanfield High, noted how good the field looked at played.

▪ Kudos clearly go to all of the individuals who took time to tend to the field.

▪ It was sad, and disappointing to many who know him, that Don Gresdel was not part of the crew to work the pitcher's mound, something he has done at Kiger Stadium for years. He is ill and his presence was missed by a lot of people.

▪ The championship game attendance was a tournament high 4,365. That brought the total attendance figure for the tournament, and its 25 games, to 27,273.

Lifetime memories overcome the pain of loss for Cardinals

Their faces told the story better than words ever could.

Their eyes were devoid of emotion, eye black dripped down their sweaty faces, shock the overall look after host Crater Lake fell from the 16-18 Babe Ruth World Series played at Kiger Stadium over the last several days.

The memories, however, will last a lifetime.

For Cade Parker and Michael Edwards, the chance to play in a World Series out-of-town and at home is something few players ever get to do. For Ky Sturgeon, it was a first-time experience, something his older brothers never were able to have.

"This year, being at home with great crowds, this is probably the most people I've ever played before," Parker, one of the Crater Lake players from Yreka to play with the Cardinals, said. "With crowds like that, it challenges you to step up your game. There's more pressure," he said.

"It's every kid's dream to play in the World Series, even if it's not the major leagues," Edwards, who graduated from Mazama, said. "Having that many fans support you, it's a once-in-a-lifetime experience.

It's always nice to be at home with bigger crowds."

And big, they were.

The Cardinals drew anywhere between 2,500 and 4,000 fans every time they played.

Both Parker and Edwards were involved with the host family program when they played in the 2014 World Series in Ephrata, Wash., where the 2016 and 2017 tournaments are scheduled to be played.

Weimer, Texas, has bid for the 2018 World Series.

"It's a great experience to see how different families work, to see how they prepare for the day, for games," Edwards said. "It's a little weird at first. Once you're welcomed and treated like one of the kids, it's like being at home."

Day in lead at F

SHEBOYGAN, Wis. (AP) —

With six straight 3s on his card, Jason Day looked determined as ever Saturday to finally win his first major. He had a 6-under 66 and built a two-shot lead in the PGA Championship, the third straight major he has at least a share of the lead going into the final round.

One look at the leaderboard at the name right behind him — Jordan Spieth — made it clear it won't be easy.

Spieth was five shots behind and had two holes to play when he capped off a stunning charge along the back nine at Whistling Straits with six birdies over his last eight holes, including three in a row at the end that gave him a 7-under 65 to get into the final group.

"Very pleased to have a chance to win another major," Spieth said.

He is trying to join Tiger Woods (2000) and Ben Hogan (1953) as the only players to win three majors in one year; and Spieth hopes to rely on his experience of having already won the Masters and U.S. Open this year.

Day showed plenty of moxie, though.

After making a double bogey that cut his lead to one shot, and then failing to birdie the par-5 16th, he poured in a 25-foot birdie

"The one big difference between the two was being at home before the big crowds," Parker said, noting the local players readily accepted the Yreka players. "Very much so," he said.

"In one word," Sturgeon said, "it was breathtaking. It was definitely one of my better experiences. Something I learned, especially from the guys who were back, is that as soon as the pressure got tough, you had to elevate your game."

"This whole experience taught me a lot," he added. "This experience means the world to me and I wouldn't trade anybody on this team. It was fun. You played for the guys besides you. We thrived on the pressure."

"One thing I'll take from this is the opportunities we had," Edwards said. "You want to be in every game no matter what, and we had a chance to win every game. We just didn't make some plays."

For those who return next season, like Sturgeon, the challenge will be to get through the tough Pacific Northwest regional tournament to be able to return to the World Series.

For the several young players who made regional tournament appearances this year as 15-year-old and 14-year-old players, the future might be as bright, and the younger players might be around if, as some people have suggested or hinted at, the World Series returns to Klamath Falls in 2019.
